Mabel's

Four hurt in salon crash

Four people were injured and three others received the shock of their lives when a car crashed through the front window of Mabel's hairdressing salon in Minden Saturday in a spectacular accident that made a shambles of the building and caused thousands of dollars in damages.

Mabel Clendenning, the 32-year-old owner and operator of Mabel's Cut 'n' Curl, was pinned against the back wall of the store when a 1975 Ford, driven by 70-year-old Lavina Curtiss of Erie, Pennsylvania, crashed through the large front window of the store, and travelled the entire length of the building before being stopped by a rear wall and furnace at the back of the salon.

Clendenning and two employees, Jennette Riches and Susan Hewson, were all taken by ambulance to Minden hospital following the incident, along with 72-year-old Ethel Sinclair, a Minden resident, for treatment of cuts and bruises. Mrs. Sinclair was having her hair done when the car crashed into the shop shortly before noon Saturday. All four women were later released.

The car demolished everything in its path as it rumbled through the room, causing $8,000 in damage to the store and $250 in damages to a car parked outside the building at the time.

Mrs. Curtiss and 74-year-old Dorothy Waidley, also of Erie, Pa., left Mabel's shortly before noon Saturday after having their hair set at the salon. Mrs. Curtiss reportedly backed across Bobcaygeon Road from in front of the building and then struck a Hydro pole near the parking lot of Monk's funeral home. In attempting to move out of the way of oncoming traffic, Mrs. Curtiss put the vehicle into drive and lurched back across the road, grazing a parked car in front of Mabel's before crashing through the window. The car knocked out a counter and dividing wall at the front of the store, flattened three hydraulic chairs and knocked down a pillar supporting the roof while two customers under hair dryers watched in amazement from the south side of the room. The car finally came to rest against the rear wall of the store, where Mabel Clendenning was pinned by the front bumper.

Jenette Riches, who was standing near the back wall close to the hydraulic chairs at the time of the crash, recalled the moment of impact to The Times while nursing a large bruise on her forearm Monday.

"We didn't see anything until it was all over. What we heard first was an ugly loud noise: it sounded like a twister or a tornado had smashed its way through the front window. Then we could hear the glass shattering and see the stuff coming at us from Corporal Steven Adams of Minden OPP inspects the damage caused by a vehicle which crashed through the front window of Mabel's Cut 'n' Curls on Main Street. The vehicle ploughed through the window sending chairs and fixtures flying and pinning several staff members against the rear wall of the building. Fortunately no one was seriously injured.

Noise from range disturbs area residents

A dispute between a Minden homeowner and directors of the Haliburton County Marksmen's Club has found its way into Minden council chambers, and councillors must now decide the fate of the rifle range on Bobcaygeon Road that is disturbing the peace of residents in the area.

Bill Carrell, whose home is within 400 yards of the range, told council at a meeting last week that noise from shooting on the range has become unbearable, and that he wants the range shut down altogether. "The noise from the range is absolutely ridiculous," an irate Carrell told council Wednesday evening. "It has made living up there almost impossible." Carrell presented council with a list of complaints from five residents of the area. He also argued that club members using rifles at the range were breaking the agreement made with the municipality when the range was established, which stated that only "small arms" would be used at the site.

Marksmen club president

Doug Tedford, however, disputed Carrell's claims against the legality of marksmen's activities at the range. Tedford told council that by the club's definition, a rifle was a small arm because it could be carried. "I don't think there was any misrepresentation to council by the club when the agreement was signed," Tedford told the meeting. "I would class a rifle as a small arm. The Solicitor General's Office has inspected and approved the site, and

The vehicle which crashed through the front window of Mabel's Cut 'n' Curls Saturday, came to rest after destroying the three hydraulic chairs and running into the rear wall. No one was seated in the chairs at the time and as a result only the four staff members sustained relatively minor injuries.

all over the room," Riches recalled. She and Susan Hewson were both pushed by the crushed divider into the rear corner of the store.

When the crash was over, Riches peeked out from the rubble to see the car in the middle of the room. "The two women in the car were as white as ghosts," she recalls.

"We're lucky, the divider and the counter were all that saved us. They slowed the car down," Susan Hewson said Monday as she surveyed the rubble at the salon.

A fourth staff member, Laurie Wrightman, was in the lunch room behind the rear wall when the car arrived.

According to Riches, Wrightman jumped up on the counter behind her when she saw the wall and the furnace advance.

While the car swept through Mabel's, Robbie Luke, an ambulance driver with the Minden Ambulance Corps, was shopping next door at The Storeroom. Luke and Phyllis Chuang were the first people at the scene, along with Gordon Monk and deputy fire chief Don Booth, who was driving past the scene when the car hit. An ambulance from Haliburton, which was being serviced at the Texaco station on South Water Street when the crash occurred, was on the scene minutes after the crash and transported the four women to Minden Hospital.

Audrey Northey, meanwhile, is thanking her lucky stars that she was so anxious to be at the Post Office before it closed at noon on Saturday. Northey, who occupied the chair closest to the window only minutes before the crash, left Mabel's for the Post Office with her hair still wet in order to reroute her son's mail to his college. When she returned shortly after noon to have her hair finished, she found the front window gone and a Ford sitting where her chair had formerly been.

Witnesses of the crash say it was a miracle that no one was killed or seriously injured in the crash. Corporal Steven Adam of the Minden OPP investigated the incident.

Range noise complaint

they knew at the time what kind of arms we would be using there," Tedford said.

Carrell objected to Tedford's position on small arms, however, also using the Solicitor General's Office as his authority in the case. According to Carrell, a source at the Solicitor General's Office told him that "small arms" refers to hand guns of any calibre, or any other weapon with a barrel length that does not exceed 18 inches. "No matter how legal these club members are, do they not have a moral obligation in this matter?" Carrell asked.

Carrell did concede to council that club directors had offered "generous" concessions in restricting its hours at the range, but he continued to insist that closing the range was the only solution he would accept.

Following a meeting between Tedford, Carrell and club secretary Dr. Jeffrey Lodenquai at the range August 12, club directors agreed to restrict shooting at the range to between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. with no shooting before noon on weekends. The two directors also agreed to stop shooting altogether

Mondays and Fridays.

The club's hours at the range, which is located in a gravel pit adjacent to Bobcaygeon Road north of Scotch Line, were formerly dawn to dusk, seven days per week.

Another issue taken up by Carrell and Tedford was the question of who was there first. While Carrell said he had begun construction of his home before the range was established in 1979, Tedford contested the claim, telling council that no work had been done on Carrell's lot when the range was set up.

According to deputy reeve Doug Pritchard, home owners in the area were consulted before the range went in. Carrell questioned Pritchard's statement, however, telling Pritchard that the eight people living in the area, only two remembered being contacted by the municipality before the range was put in.

Clerk-treasurer Elinor Burk told the group that the council motion giving the club permission to lease the land made no mention of contacting the homeowners in the area.

The issue has now been left up to municipal council to resolve. Reeve Lloyd Walker told the group Wednesday that council would seek a legal description of "small arms" before ruling on Carrell's demands that the range be shut down. The possibility of relocating the range was also discussed by the group, although no alternative sites were proposed at the meeting.

Metric change-over continues in Minden

Minden area food stores are scheduled to convert their scales to weigh food in grams and kilograms during the first half of September.

A Metric Commission Canada spokesman says the conversion is part of the national changeover from Imperial units like pounds, ounces, yards, miles, gallons and degrees Fahrenheit to metres, kilometres, litres and degrees Celsius that began in 1971.

Shoppers have bought pre-packaged food in metric units for several years, often without recognizing the change. But now, in the last stage of conversion to world-standard metric measures of all kinds, items that are individually weighed in stores will also be purchased on a metric basis. Items affected include meat, poultry, fish, cheese, fruit, vegetables, nuts and candy. To make this possible, scales in all local stores will be changed to metric during the conversion period in this area as part of the Canada-wide program.

The changeover began simultaneously in 21 areas across Canada in January 1982 and is now covering the rest of the country progressively in the two-year period to the end of 1983.

From the start date of conversion in this area, grocery advertising will show prices by both metric and Imperial units. For example, ground meat might be advertised at both $3.30 per kilogram and $1.50 per pound. Under the provisions of the Weights and Measures regulations, advertising stating prices in both metric and Imperial units will be allowed to continue until the end of December 1983. After this date metric units will be used exclusively.

Metric Commission Canada has prepared an extensive public awareness program. As part of it, information pamphlets and posters will be available in the stores to help shoppers adapt to metric units.

It was also announced that a service to respond to consumer complaints during the changeover has been established by Consumer & Corporate Affairs Canada. As a first step, consumers are asked to discuss any difficulties - such as apparent price discrepancies - with the manager of the store involved. Then, if the matter cannot be resolved satisfactorily, consumers are invited to contact the nearest of the department's 27 district offices across Canada where the complaint will be followed up.

Couple injured in watery crash

A Scarborough couple received minor injuries when their car crashed into Kushog Lake Sunday after the driver of the vehicle swerved to avoid a deer.

Sixty-five-year old Fred Fairhead and his wife Margaret, 64, were driving on Buckside Road Sunday, August 23 at 3:00 a.m. when they came upon the deer. Fairhead swerved his 1976 Ford to miss the animal, skidded over some rocks and into Lake Kushog. He and his passenger escaped with only minor injuries. The car received $1,800 in damages.

The incident was investigated by PC Mike Smith.

Gravel

Thirty-one year-old Philip Holt is shy one load of gravel and not sure how to get it back after rolling his Mac truck Sunday in an accident that caused an estimated $11,000 in damages.

Holt was travelling on Highway 519 in Guilford Township Sunday morning at 10:45 when he pulled his 1974 Mac truck onto the right shoulder of the road to allow another vehicle to pass. Loose gravel on the shoulder pulled Holt's truck further to the right, where it eventually crashed through some guard rails and rolled down a 15-metre embankment. Holt was only slightly injured in the crash, but he lost the entire load of gravel he was hauling at the time.

Failing

A St. Catharines man faces a charge of failing to yield right-of-way after his car was struck by another vehicle on Highway 35 in Carnarvon last Thursday.

Twenty-three year -old Stephen Jones was charged by Constable Mike Legge after he pulled out to cross the highway in his 1980 Pontiac and was hit by a 1980 Oldsmobile, being driven by Bunars Dreimanis, 53, of Scarborough. Jones, Dreimanis and his passenger Velma Dreimanis, 43, were all slightly injured in the crash, which caused $4,000 in damages to the two cars.

Serious

A Minden man was seriously injured Friday when he drove his 1980 Honda motorcycle off the road and was thrown into a rock cut.

Thirty-nine year-old Robert Emmerson was driving on Highway 35 5 kilometres north of Minden Friday at 9:45 p.m. when he lost control of his motorcycle and left the road. Emmerson struck a rock cut when he was thrown from the machine. He was transferred from Minden Hospital to Ross Memorial in Lindsay, where he was treated for injuries to his chest area.

Private

A head-on collision caused minor injuries to three people and did $4,000 in damage on a narrow private road in Glamorgan township Saturday.

Graham Hubley, 34, of Elliot Lake, was east bound on Haliburton Hockey Haven Road Saturday morning at 11:00 a.m. He collided with a car being driven by Robert Duke, 35, of Edmonton. Duke's 83 Datsun sustained $3,000 in damage in the crash. Hubley's 1975 Plymouth, an older car, escaped with $1,000 in damages.

The incident was investigated by Constable Mike Legge.

Swamped

John Berry had a close look at a swamp Sunday when his car landed in it. Berry was taking a normal drive in his 1975 Datsun that Sunday evening on Highway 35, 4 kilometres south of Minden. The 31-year-old Lakefield man swerved to avoid an oncoming vehicle, lost control of the car and began rolling immediately towards the swamp at the bottom of an embankment beside the road.

Barry was not seriously injured in the unexpected visit to the swamp, but he'll have to find $6,000 if he wants to return his car to the shape it was in before the unscheduled field trip.

PC Brian Dunham investigated the incident.

If your car's out of shape you get rid of it, right? What if your body's out of shape?

The slow change

Litres, kilometres, Celsius, kilograms...the invasion of a new system of measurement into the life of average Canadians has been slow but persistent. The new system gains another foothold this month as area retail grocery stores must begin selling meat, vegetables and other food in grams and kilograms.

The conversion of the country to metric measurement began in 1971. During the initial years, the change created a great deal of unrest. Groups formed presented vociferous opposition to the imposition of the new system. They not only objected to what they perceived as an unnecessary change, but also to the fact the new system was being, to steal a phrase from another campaign, rammed down their throats.

There are few of us now who don't have at least an elementary grasp of what the new terms mean. Indeed, the most die-hard Imperial measurement supporter, must feel lost in today's Canada.

It is likely that this latest change in the Minden area will draw little in the way of protest from consumers since they have already been exposed to metric measurement. Perhaps, too, they have slowly lost the will to battle back, to protest something which individuals and groups, no matter how strong, have been unable to halt.

The imposition of the metric system is destined to succeed in Canada. The fact that it will, speaks volumes about Canadians and the people they elect to serve them.

Cresting the hill

The government is getting the message

- by Bill Scott, M.P. -

Since the recess of Parliament earlier this month, I have spent most of my time listening to the concerns and problems of my constituents. People want to express their problems. They have lost hope for a solution to anything coming from any Government department or agency. Fortunately, I and my staff can sometimes help in cutting the red tape holding up decisions or payments owed to my constituents.

This lack of confidence in the Government is consistent with the mid-July Gallup Poll, which showed that, while 84% of Canadians are aware of the June 28 budget, 66% of us feel that the budget measures will not strengthen the economy, and 83% feel it will either hurt or make no difference to their family's financial situation. Canadians do not believe that this Liberal Government is acting in their best interests.

How can they expect the trust of the thousands of people they are forcing out of work every day? The Government's Minister of Transport has admitted that the restraint program may cause higher unemployment. In referring to Air Canada's and C.N.'s announced layoffs of up to 7,000 employees, Mr. Pepin said, "That's one way of increasing productivity isn't it. That is the way they can stay at 6 and 5." He later apologized for being so blunt, but, he did not retract the statement. In other words, the Government is tying the success of the program to continued high unemployment.

I wonder what level of unemployment will be high enough for their purposes. The seasonally adjusted unemployment rate in July was a record 11.8%. One million, three hundred and eighty-six thousand people were looking for work, the highest since the depression. This was before the full implementation of this program of controls. I hope the Minister of Employment can smile when he explains to young Canadians, 15 to 24, that they are contributing most to the elevation of the unemployment rate. In July, 1982, 20.9% of people in this age bracket were unemployed, and one hundred and forty-six thousand fewer students had summer jobs than a year earlier.

As I have declared earlier, I hope the "six per cent solution" works, and I am encouraged by recent drops in the interest rate. I do not think that this must be done by forcing further unemployment and hardships. I am sure those who think it must are taking care not to talk to their constituents since this recess.

If they do talk to them and see the plight they are forcing on them, surely they will appeal to their Cabinet to do something to reduce unemployment as well as inflation and interest rates.

Mr. Trudeau now has first hand evidence of the unpopularity, and in some cases downright hatred, of his Government. His recent vacation was marred with incidents of heckling, fruit throwing and stoning of his railway car in Ontario and all the western provinces. Evidence is turning up in Ottawa that his Cabinet is getting the message as well. Almost daily, press conferences are held by groups of Cabinet Ministers announcing programs. They announce one day that they are considering the program, another day that they are discussing the program, and another that they have reached agreement in principle and so on. The plan is obviously to get as many different Ministers as possible some publicity whether or not the announced program is really new or just re-announcements of existing programs.

I urge those of you in trouble, due to the economic conditions, do not give up. I think the government is beginning to get the message that they are responsible for this current economic malaise. I assure you that I will continue to try and force them into action on your behalf, both on a collective as well as on an individual basis. Let's hope the turnaround is beginning now.

Managing Minden forests

Watching the men work takes a quick eye. They start up the trail into the bush in single file, sharp axes hanging at their sides. In a few minutes, they have become a sprinkling of bright orange hard hats shining out of a dark green wood. And the chips are flying as the axes swing. In a few more minutes they have moved out of sight altogether, up the hill and over a ridge with axes working all the way.

These are the methods of the Ministry of Natural Resources' girdling crew. The seven men who work out of the Minden office are all casual employees with the Ministry, and girdling is their specialty. As they move through the bush with their axes at work the men are killing trees: not felling them completely, just cutting a wide strip out of the bark wood all the way around the trunk. In five years, the tree will slowly starve to death as the sap flow is stopped by the cut.

Although to many, the technique of girdling is wasteful, workers at the Timber office of the MNR are convinced it is the best method of improving the quality of hard and softwood stands in the district. Buck Hillis, Forest Operations Co-ordinator for the Minden district, sees girdling as the most efficient solution to a problem that is economic in nature: "A lot of people are against girdling because they feel, 'Mother Nature looked after it before, she'll look after it now.' We've got to the day and age when we simply can't afford to have forest acreage growing below capacity. Girdling is the cheapest, quickest and most thorough method of increasing the quality and the value of a stand of trees," Hillis explains.

There are many reasons why girdling works. According to Hillis, the key to the technique is the relationship between the crown of a tree - the uppermost branches exposed to direct light - and the tree's rate of growth. "When we talk about girdling as 'release' we're talking about giving the crown room to grow. By killing off the inferior specimens, the crowns of healthy trees will be able to expand and the rate of growth for that tree will go up as a result," Hillis explains. The success of girdling, says Hillis, has been proven again and again: "After a girdling project, we see an increase of annual growth as high as three times what it was. That's putting a lot of beef on a tree," he says.

The gradual death that girdling brings is a strong advantage of girdling over felling. The tree will begin to die at the crown, losing leaves and branches gradually, until lower trunk and limbs begin to decay. The slow change prevents sunlight from entering the forest floor at once. If the trunk of a tree receives too much sunlight too fast, dormant buds beneath the bark will begin new growth - epicormic branching - which devalues the wood by introducing knots into the grain.

Maintaining light levels on the forest floor is something Hillis has witnessed first hand. He returned to a girdled stand for five straight years, taking a light reading at the site on the first sunny day near July 1 for each of those five years. In five years, Hillis says, he recorded no significant change in light reading.

Out in the bush, where theory becomes practice, a lot of preparation is needed before the girdling crew actually goes to work. On a rainy morning in Dudley township, foreman Bill Beers and his crew of seven arrive at an 80-acre parcel of forest owned by Ken Wiseman, a Hydro employee from Oshawa. As Beers and his men move into the woods, they follow a colour code which has been marked on the tree trunks by a survey crew some months before. The blue dots, spray painted several feet above the ground on the trunk, mean the tree is O.K.; the yellow dots mean it's marked to be girdled. Not every tree is as easily girdled as the next; sometimes a cut in the bark will cause a deep fold to form in the bark; the girdler will then have to cut up and around the fold, or if it is too high, cut into the wood to break the bark surface. The trees selected for girdling on the Wiseman property are generally weak or defective ones, or those of a species less valuable commercially than the hard and soft maples which predominate; beech and bass are particularly hard hit by the marking crews. When the weather allows, Beers' crew can girdle as much as 30 acres per day. When it rains, however, it is a different story; a shower on the Wiseman property makes footing treacherous, and as one man ends up on his seat after an errant swing, Beers and his men head for the truck to call it a day.

Back at the office, Hillis explains the full breadth of the MNR's forest management plan: "This year we're tending 3,100 acres of forested land in the district," Hillis says. "We're managing both hard and soft wood stands. In Galway township, for example, we're doing the chemical and mechanical preparation for planting white pine on 220 acres," Hillis explains. Lands managed by the management work, we're getting away from that and getting more out of the land." The Monmouth tract has been logged clean and the few trees that loggers have left - beech and defective maple for the most part - have already been culled by Beers' crew to allow new growth of maple, or "regen" as Thornett calls it, a chance to grow.

Not far from the logged maple stand, the MNR is overseeing a new growth of poplar. Standing chest high in the new stand, Thornett explains the intricacies of poplar growth: Poplar will only regenerate when soil temperatures go up; it thrives in the logged areas, where there is a lot of sunlight on the ground and the machines have disturbed the surface of the soil. We'll be using these logs for pulp when they reach maturity."

Managing Minden forests is clearly a big job. In the Minden district of the MNR, there are 558,000 acres of producing forest land. Sixty-six percent of which is covered by valuable hardwood stands. Last year some timber office include both private and Crown tracts and an additional 9,100 acres owned by Victoria County and managed by the Minden district office.

"We pick stands on a priority basis; how great the need is for release. On Crown Land, we chose those sites which can produce the most the best," Hillis says.

The results of careful management, according to Hillis, can be seen today in the Victoria Forest. "In Victoria we're laying out for a cutting a managed Red Pine stand planted in 1928. That was 54 years ago, and the stand is now ready for use as small saw logs, log house timbers and pulp. A wild stand would only have been ready for use as pulp by now," Hillis explains.

Leonard Thornett, an MNR employee who inspects culling work done by both private and government workers, pulls his four-wheel drive up a logging road in Monmouth township. Moving through the scattered branches and trunks of a logged maple stand, he explains the advantages that forest management has for the industry: "Not too many years ago, loggers would come in, take the cream and leave the rest. They were only interested in the stuff they could make money on. With this kind of 7500 cords of timber were cut on Crown Land in the district, with about twice that amount being taken on private land. Peter Hynard of the Minden office, explains the economic importance of the logging industry in Minden: "For every cord of wood we cut in the Minden district, we're adding $350 dollars to the economy; that's what the provincial figures tell us. When you consider that we cut roughly 22,500 cords of wood last year, that's $7,875,000 worth of economic activity being generated by the industry," Hynard explains.

Although the lumber industry in the area is not what it once was, management techniques are ensuring that the resource will not deplete in value. According to Hynard, each year the Ministry cuts the same amount of wood that grows in the district, so harvest and regeneration are kept in equilibrium. Girdling is only one of many different approaches to management problems in the Minden district, but it seems to be one that captures the essential aim of forest management: the girdler's axe at work today ensures a healthy forest and a healthy economy for coming years.

Following the tremendous success of the First Canadian Motorcycle Hillclimb Championships on the Wilbermere Resort property at Wilberforce, talk has already turned towards making it an annual event. The credit for this however must certainly go to the residents of the Wilberforce area for the great support they provided in getting the initial event off the ground.

John Williams, the World Champion who brought the event to town, was interviewed on C.B.C.'s radio morning show on Monday to report on the competition's success. He was so enthusiastic about the way the community chipped in to make things happen that he said he just couldn't express his sincere feelings. It seemed that in many areas as soon as you mention motorcycle the residents fear trouble rather than approaching the concept with an open mind. We now have two International Class motorcycle competitions held in our county (the other being the Corduroy Enduro running Sept. 11 and 12) and both have proven that there is nothing to fear and that the events can be a very worthwhile attraction to our area.

Bill Thomas, the property owner, has gone way out on a limb to provide the facilities that most people don't want nearby. His property is ideal for this purpose because the noise bothers no one nearby and besides the spectacular hill for the hillclimb he has a Motorcross track and a flat track for dirt bikes and is developing a trail for 4 x 4's and A.T.V.'s. Bill, like John Williams, has been overwhelmed by the help and encouragement from the community and we are sure that with that kind of support he will do well with this development.

In Minden

The Haliburton County Farmers' Association has firmly established their Farmers' Market every Saturday morning in the Municipal parking lot at Minden. It begins at 9:00 a.m. and operates until sold out, which at times can be shortly afterwards. Anyone wishing to participate in the market may do so simply by joining the association. They may either provide their own table or sell produce directly from their vehicle. For more information contact Maureen Warburton, secretary-treasurer, at 457-1200. And if you are looking for garden fresh produce come on out early on Saturdays.

Don Sinclair also tells us that the Minden Lawn Bowling program is one of a kind. Normally when this sport moves indoors it becomes carpet bowling which uses different balls and adjusted rules. Minden however has retained all the components of outdoor lawn bowling substituting only the grass with astro-turf and doing away with the problems of inclement weather by using the old curling quarters. If you want to know more about their entertaining sport call Don Sinclair at 286-2747.

Harvest Festival Passports available

We must apologize for the delay in making the passports available but we ran into a printing delay. They are now available however, at Sandalwood in Minden, Barr's in Gooderham, Varty's Jewellers in Haliburton and Mr. Fogg's in Carnarvon.

The Caribbean night in Minden on September 24 will feature some island delicacies along with rum punch and pina colodas and very special entertainment. In Gooderham on Sept. 25 visitors will be treated to Bavarian food fare while being serenaded by some appropriate tunes from the "old country".

The following weekend in Stanhope brings a French Monte Carlo theme called "Bien Venue a Stanhope" where your dollars will immediately be traded for French Francs. These francs in turn may be used to try some of the games of chance, sample some french pastries and exotic dishes and wines. A disco will run concurrently while you are entertained by two Cabaret shows and two auctions for super prices (with francs, of course).

The final night in Haliburton is an "Elizabethan Experience" and will have a sit down dinner of chicken and ribs served by wenches and overseen by a Manor Lord. A minstrel will entertain and provide music for dancing and souvenir steins can be taken home to help you remember the occasion.

Admission to all or any of the events is by passport, which are priced at a nominal $8.00 for all 4 nights, $5.00 for two and $3.00 for a single event.

As if all this wasn't enough to celebrate our fall season the Haliburton and District Lions Club are also holding an Autumn Fest Dance on the 25th of September at the Minden Community Centre. So there you are, you owe it to yourself to get out and have some fun before settling down to worrying about Christmas shopping and all those other winter problems looming over the horizon.

Pan-Am this weekend

The Minden White Water Park will be the site of a competition, second only in prestige to the World Championships, on this Saturday, September 4. This International event began on the Savage River in Maryland on August 21, then to Jonquiere, Quebec last weekend and the final takes place right here. Among those competing will be 15 year old Allison Drought from Barrie who teaches the Kayak program at Camp Kandalore. Allison will also be on the Canadian team when they go into the World Championships.

Competition runs from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday and you can also catch a glimpse of them practicing Friday afternoon. There is no parking or entry fee so just come out and enjoy the sport on the spectacular Horseshoe Rapids. See you there!

Playoffs begin

The Minden Rockcliff Hustlers open their play-offs tonight (September 1) at the Minden Ball diamond.

The team meets Bobcaygeon in the best of five series in the first round of the tri-county league play-offs. Game time is 8 p.m. Local fans are encouraged to get out and support the team.

Hillclimb provides thrills for 3,000

Some 3,000 people were on hand Sunday for the first running of the Canadian Championship Hillclimb at the new hill in Wilberforce. Spectators lined the pit area and spilled over into a meadow at the base of the hill to view the event, which drew 12 riders from across the United States with nitro-burning motorcycles in tow.

Organizers were overwhelmed by the success of the event. John Williams, the 43 year-old World Champion hillclimber who organized the event along with Wilberforce landowner Bill Thomas, was amazed by the turnout: "We didn't expect a crowd of this size," Williams, who finished first in Sunday's running of the 500 cc class, said in an interview during a break in the action Sunday. Williams divided his time between overseeing events on the ground and blasting up the 500 metre hill on his way to the win.

Williams and Thomas began work on the hill only six weeks before the Canadian Championship was scheduled to take place. Sunday's success marked the end of a hectic schedule of preparation, which included clearing the hill and building a road into the site from Highway 121 east of Wilberforce.

On the hill Sunday, cyclists competed in 500 cc and 750 cc classes, riding Yamahas, Harleys, BSAs, Triumphs and Hondas up the loose loam of what is now called "Mount Williams." The specially built machines, which are fueled by nitromethane, threw up a high wake of dirt on the way up the hill. Bikes cleared the ground going over all three of the ridges on the hill, and many riders ended up in the dirt before their machines crossed the near-vertical finish of the course.

On the ground below, meanwhile, times were announced almost instantly from the announcer's booth near the starting pit. Concession stands lined the area near the pit, and the meadow was nearly filled with cars and a long line of motorcycles. Television crews from Barrie, Kitchener and Global TV covered the action Sunday.

OPP constables were on hand to control traffic leaving the area at the end of the event. OPP Sergeant Bill Bailey, who was a spectator Sunday, was pleased with the crowd.

Riders had four chances at Mount Williams Sunday, with their best time being used to determine standings for the day. In the 750 class, Louie Gerencer of Elkheart, Indiana took first place with a winning time of 7.4 seconds, a time which is also the new hill record. Earl Bowldy of Logon, Ohio took second spot, only two one-thousandths of a second off Gerencer's mark with a time of 7.42. Tom Rieser of Columbus, Ohio was third with a time of 8.11, and Greg Williams, the 19-year-old son of John, took fourth in the event with crossing the line on his Honda in 8.31 seconds.

In the 500 cc class, first place went to John Williams. The win was Williams 9th Canadian championship, and he is also the current American Grand National Champion and World Champion. He has won both those titles five times.

Second place in the 500 class went to Larry Licht, from Cedar Rapids, Iowa with a time of 8.73. Ralph Kreeger of Red Lion, Pennsylvania took third at 8.74 seconds.

Williams wound up the day with a demonstration ride on his six-cylinder Honda, a gleaming chromed machine that he and mechanic Nick Kemp have been working on for several years.

On the strength of Sunday's event, Williams and Thomas are already planning a repeat for next year, and they also intend to stage the Ontario Championship at the site. With Molson's on tap as a possible sponsor, next year's activity at the hill should be even bigger and better.

A hillclimb competitor tops the first ridge of the Wilberforce hill as spectators look on: moments later, the same rider bogs down in deep loam before his ride comes to an untimely end at the midway point of the course.

Three more will stand

This past week, three individuals in Stanhope and Anson, Hindon and Minden Townships have declared their intentions to seek municipal office in the upcoming November election.

In Minden, where a number of candidates have already announced their candidacy, Bern Berry of Minden Lake, indicated that he would be placing his name on the ballot for councillor this year.

Berry has been an active member of the Minden Lake Property Owners Association, being one of the lake's property owners who helped to form the organization three years ago. He has lobbied the municipal authorities in the past three years, expressing the association's concern about a proposed subdivision on the lake, among other matters.

While Berry has owned a cottage on the lake for the past eight years, his association with the Highlands goes back much further. "My mother was born and raised here," he commented and I have visited the county many times before purchasing a cottage here."

"I am looking for a blend on council," Berry commented. "I think the council needs representation from all facets of the community. The seasonal residents, who contribute a large portion of municipal taxes, want to have a say in how that money is being spent and the policies being formulated by the local council. I think the wants of the seasonal residents have been ignored, the council just doesn't have an ear for them."

"I would like to see a council that is willing to make

Second advance poll approved

November 6 has been chosen as the second date for advance polls in the upcoming municipal election in Minden.

At a meeting last week, Anson, Hindon and Minden council agreed on the date, for the municipal poll. The November 6 date is in addition to the mandatory advance poll, which will be held October 30 throughout the province.

The second poll in Anson, Hindon and Minden townships is intended to ease the load at the polls on the regular voting day, which is November 8 this year. The November 6 date also coincides with the opening of hunting season in the district, and will therefore give hunters the opportunity to vote before leaving for the one-week hunt.

The polls will be open from 9 a.m. until 8 p.m.

decisions, even if they are the wrong ones. It shows they are moving at least," Berry commented.

Berry, who expects to draw the largest portion of his support from other seasonal residents in the municipality, is a Sergeant on the Metropolitan Toronto Police Force. He is a member of the Emergency Task Force of the police department.

The 25 year veteran of the Metro police force noted that his position allows him the flexibility to be available for council meetings during the week.

"I believe I have a feeling for the community and would like to help guide its progress. I think I can make a worthwhile contribution," Berry commented.

Stanhope hopefuls

Meanwhile in Stanhope Township, two present members of the municipal council have indicated their intention to seek office again this November.

Jim Harrison has announced he will be opting out of the race for reeve. He has held the reeve's chair for four of his fourteen years and has indicated he will not be running in the fall election.

marketing businessman who has made his home in the Highlands for the past ten years, has said he'll be seeking the reeve's job. Davis, who has sat as a councillor on Stanhope council for six years, has been pleased with municipal government in the township so far. "I'll be aiming to maintain the same level of municipal government we've had over the years. Reeve Harrison has done a very fine job. I hope to keep up that calibre of work," Davis told The Times Tuesday.

Elgin Stouffer, who has been deputy reeve in Stanhope for the past six years, will also be returning to the race in November to seek the deputy reeve's spot once again. "I'm looking forward to giving the job my best shot again," Stouffer said in an interview this week. "As deputy reeve I have the opportunity to vote on issues, which is one thing the reeve does not always have a chance to do. That is the kind of contribution I like to make, and I'd like to keep it up," he said.

66 teed off

Some 66 golfers braved intermittent sunshine Sunday to take part in the third annual Rockcliffe Tavern golf tournament.

The two-ball foursome (and in some cases four-ball eightsome) tournament, was played at the Beaverbrook Course in Minden.

Tournament organizer Dave Willis reports that a record 47 balls were added to the Gull River collection at the fifth hole. At least two determined golfers added enough power to their drive to send their balls over the river and into Rotary Park.

Debbie Wolfram won the longest drive competition; Nancy Keetch was awarded the closest to the hole prize; while Karen Colliss was the winner of the weekend for two at the Quality Inn in Niagara Falls, New York. The prize was donated by Cub Coney-beare of Butcher Shop Travel, a division of D.C.E.C. Travel of Oakville.

Unfortunately, the scorecards were used to start the barbeque which followed the action on the links, and organizers were unable to determine the winner of the tournament.

Minden verging on league title

Minden Dixie Lee Ladies Softball team is one game away from the league championship after battling their Haliburton rivals for two straight wins in their last two matchups. Minden now leads the best of seven final series three games to one, and could wrap up the playoffs with a victory tonight (September 1) in Haliburton. The series was tied at a game apiece as the two teams headed into last Wednesday's game. Minden Dixie Lee jumped out in front 8-0 in the first three innings, but Haliburton exploded for six in the bottom of the fourth to move within two runs of Dixie Lee. Minden came back in the top of the fifth, however, bagging four runs on timely hits. Anne Hewson cracked a homer to help put Minden out front 12-6.

Minden played a strong defensive game in the bottom of the fifth to keep Haliburton off the scoreboard, and the sixth inning was also scoreless. Haliburton turned in an impressive defensive display in the top of the seventh to stop Minden from scoring, and came back in the bottom of the seventh with five runs.

The seventh inning effort was not enough however, and Minden took the game by a single run, 12-11. Nelda Cully and Anne Hewson were strong at the plate for Minden and they also shared the win from the mound. Shirley Hewitt and Miriam Smith played well for Haliburton, while Nancy Maughan took the loss for the club.

A three-run homer from Haliburton's Marla McNaull was not enough to stop Minden in the fourth game of the series Monday. The two teams fought a see-saw battle at the Minden diamond, but Dixie Lee again predominated to take the game 14-12. Sue Lehn, Marlaine Wilson and Nelda Cully all had a good night at the plate for Minden. Betty Whiteway and Marla McNaull led the way for Haliburton. Anne Hewson and Nelda Cully shared the win for Minden. Nancy Maughan took the loss.

The fifth game will be played in Haliburton tonight at 7:00 p.m. and the sixth match, if necessary, will be played Monday in Minden.

The Setting

One of the newest and most exciting additions to the Highlands dining scene is The Harvest Dining Lounge in Haliburton.

The Harvest opened in early July and has been pleasing diners throughout the summer. The opening was the culmination of several months strenuous work by George and Elaine Schmid, who also operate the Beaconbrook Hotel in Haliburton. After a complete refurbishing, what emerged was one of the most pleasant dining spots in the area.

The Harvest Dining Lounge offers two dining experiences. The lounge downstairs has a quiet subdued air. The chairs are large and comfortable, the colours cool, the atmosphere relaxing. The menu includes many gourmet entrees including such tempting dishes as rack of lamb, steak, and a selection of seafood.

If you're looking for something a bit more informal it's right over your head, upstairs. The Lighter Side, as the second floor lounge is called, features the same delicious food in an interesting and inviting setting.

Huge skylights fill the room with cheery brightness and give the lounge the basis for its name. The relaxed atmosphere of The Lighter Side is accented by the lovely hanging plants that tumble out of their baskets giving the room a garden-like outdoor freshness.

Whichever room you choose, upstairs or down, you'll be pleased with your visit to The Harvest Dining Lounge.

The Harvest Dining Lounge and The Lighter Side are open seven days a week 11 a.m. to midnight. Both rooms are fully licenced under the LLBO and all major credit cards are accepted. For reservations call 457-2700.

Resource inventory will identify land uses

A few inches of top soil are the key to sustaining most life in this world, and especially the existence of humans. Only a small percentage of the land in the world has any top soil on it, and some experts tell us it takes one acre of this land to produce enough food for each person.

With the increasing demands which civilization is placing on land today, conflicts for the use of land are increasing in frequency.

With the increasing demands which civilization is placing on land today, conflicts for the use of land are increasing in frequency.

Everyone interested in food production will welcome the recent announcement about the development of an Agricultural Resource Inventory for Ontario. This is a joint federal-provincial project announced by Federal Employment and Immigration Minister Lloyd Axworthy, and Ontario Agriculture & Food Minister, Dennis Timbrell.

The Resource Inventory will identify and map the current uses being made of agricultural land, and will also map the current tile drainage of farm land in the province.

Mr. Timbrell stated that the project will generate an important data base for planning and decision making on a wide range of agricultural issues.

At the present time there are three groups of 2 people surveying the crops which were grown this past year in Victoria and Peterborough Counties. Each field will be coded on aerial photographs.

In most cases, the work will be done by a team from the road, however, where fields exist which cannot be seen from the road, they will be checking with the farm owner. When a farm call is required, your co-operation would be appreciated.

The tile drainage survey in Victoria County is being carried out by Bill Germyn, of Lindsay. Bill will be visiting farms where tile has been installed and where possible he will get the acreage of tile, the date installed, and whether or not it is a systematic or random tile system. This information will be of assistance in planning future tile drainage assistance and other programs. Anyone wishing more information on this project should contact the Lindsay Agricultural Office.

Change in vet subsidy proposed

Subsidizing veterinary services based on the number of calls made instead of the present lump sum annual grant is the primary recommendation of a report released today by Agriculture and Food Minister Dennis Timbrell.

The report, "A Study of the Veterinary Assistance Program in Northern Ontario," prepared by Dr. James White of Info Results Limited, suggests abolishing the present $12,000 yearly grant and paying veterinarians a fee per kilometre for driving time as well as car expenses on their calls for food-producing animals.

"The veterinary assistance program was originally established to ensure that areas of the province where commercial livestock operations are few and far between would have access to the same level of veterinary services as the rest of Ontario," the Minister said.

The report also recommends extending this subsidy to any veterinarian in these areas who would: provide full-time service to all large animal producers; abide by maximum rates established by the Ministry to provide uniform changes for all large animal work; maintain an office within five kilometres of the designated area; have adequate large animal equipment and maintain a reasonable supply of drugs.

"This would give veterinarians who wish to practice in these areas a better opportunity to do so," Timbrell said.

The report will be circulated for comments from the veterinary profession and the users of these services. Ministry staff will hold public meeting in the fall to discuss these recommendations.

The 13 designated areas in northern Ontario are: Kenora, Dryden, Thunder Bay, Rainy River, Algoma, Manitoulin, West Sudbury, Verner, North Bay-Powassan, Timiskaming, Cochrane South, East Parry Sound and West Parry Sound. The five southern Ontario areas include: the Bruce Peninsula, Renfrew, Renfrew West, North Hastings and Haliburton. Dr. Peter Bennett is the veterinarian serving the Haliburton County area.

Last year, the 27 veterinarians taking part in the program in the existing 18 designated areas made almost 24,000 calls.

Did you know?

In February of 1981, Stanley Urbaniak, an elderly resident of Haliburton, died in his home. Mr. Urbaniak did not have any close neighbours. His body was discovered a week later by visiting friends.

This shocking story is a familiar one to urban residents who often do not know their next door neighbour. In Haliburton County, an area so vast and sparsely populated, some people live in isolation too.

Do you know that Haliburton Home Support provides a free service for the elderly or handicapped who live alone?

"Fone-a-Friend" - daily call by a volunteer for safety and security reasons, will also provide a social contact with the community on a regular basis.

For more information on this and other services call Home Support Services at 457-2941 or the Haliburton County Information Centre at 457-2733.

Soccer success

The first season of youth soccer came to a successful close this weekend with the visit of a team from Scarborough to play the Minden and Haliburton teams.

The Saturday afternoon game was rained out in Minden, so the contest was rescheduled for Saturday evening. A second game was played Sunday afternoon in Haliburton.

Commenting on the weekend games, Milne noted that the local teams were out-classed by the visitors from Toronto. "The Scarborough team had been playing together for the entire summer, playing a game a week and taking part in a practice. The expertise of the visitors really made a difference." He noted that the first game was taken by Scarborough 7 - 0, and in the second game the two teams shared players in the second half to even the odds.

This was the first season for the soccer program in the Highlands and according to organizers, the activity was well accepted by the youngsters. According to organizer Jim Milne of Haliburton, the youths who took part in both communities enjoyed themselves and improved their soccer skills.

to all dogs, registered or unregistered, any breed, any age, except for dogs who have been professionally trained or have won obedience trials) This is a fun competition to see how well your dog is trained and how he performs in public: 1. Suzie; 2. Toby; 3. Bruin.

This year's show champion was Chico. Chico beat out all dogs competing in the Breed Fun category to take the Championship ribbon for the show. Walter Ackerblade, who organized this year's show, donated $50 towards prize money, which enabled prizes of $2 and $1 to be awarded to fourth and fifth place finishers in this year's event. First place prize money was $8, second, $6 and third took $4. Coboconk Sure Gains Feeds also contributed eight bags of dog food as prizes for the show.

Highway 35 - Minden - 286-1628

Gary Kenney

I intend to stand for council.

(Anson, Hindon & Minden Township)

- The Highlands Visitor is invariably a Minden Visitor.
- As well as supporting the Rejuvenation of the county Chamber of Commerce, Council must seek ways to promote the unique aspects of its own townships.
- Minden is the County Town and a gateway to the HighlandsIf we choose to celebrate it.

As a member of council I would propose that:

- (1) Combined workshops with all association, fair, carnival and derby committees be organized to explore timetables, promotions, cost-sharing of common expenses, etc.
- (2) Three yearly-themes be chosen in advance for a series of 12-month programs of co-ordinated activities and events.
- (3) Contacts be made with the over two dozen other communities that share Highway 35 from Newcastle to Dwight with a view to promotion of that artery as the "road to outdoor recreation" that it is. Also co-ordination of inter-community events and team competitions along the highway be planned to stimulate year-round visitor interest.
- (4) A determined effort be made by a committee of seasonal and permanent residents to secure a Provincial Wilderness Park in Anson and Hindon townships.

Minden IS the County Town and THE GATEWAY to the Highlands.

Dutch Diary

by Greg Feltham

Greg Feltham is a Minden high school student who is spending a year in Holland. The exchange is sponsored by Rotary International and the Minden Rotary Club. Greg has agreed to share his experiences with our readers through regular correspondence. This first letter outlines his initial impressions of the Netherlands.

Groeten uit Castricum

This will probably take a week to write as I have hardly had a free moment since I got here, a little over two weeks ago. Right now I have less than half an hour as I'm going out for dinner and then to a disco.

I guess it would be easiest for me if I try and recount what has happened since my arrival.

My plane ride here was an experience in itself. I sat beside two teenage girls, who it turns out, spoke not a word of English. The next seven hours were spent using hand signals, pictures, and my futile attempts at Dutch.

I was met at Schiphol Airport in Amsterdam by my Rotary Club councillor and by my host father and brother. We drove for about 30 minutes along freeways and through numerous towns and villages before arriving at my hometown, Castricum. It is overall a very modern and new town, although it dates back hundreds of years.

Castricum, with a population of about 23,000 is a classic example of a planned town, consisting mainly of residential housing with very modern architecture. The three storey houses are small, yet elaborately furnished, with every available space in the house being used. They are almost entirely brick, with curved clay shingles on the roof. Yet within miles, the style can be totally different.

Castricum is a commuter town, with many people travelling daily by car or electric train to Amsterdam. Although there are farms outside the city, Castricum, and especially Castricum aan Zee are very popular with tourists from all over the Netherlands and Germany. They come here for the campgrounds in the forest and especially for the fantastic beach. The beach stretches for many miles up the west coast of Holland.

It is like a beach in Florida or California except instead of hotels, huge sand dunes rise high above the beach to protect the country from the sea. It has been especially busy this year because it has been so sunny all summer. In my first two weeks here, it has rained only one day, with the temperature being between 24 degrees C and 32 degrees C. To make it better, the sun doesn't set until 10 p.m. during the summer and there are never any mosquitoes.

My biggest surprise was the number of bicycles in Holland. I have seen more in two weeks than I have in my whole life. There is an absolute maze of Fietspaden (paved bike trails), covering the whole country. They are quite elaborate, having their own stoplights, railroad crossings, passing and turning lanes, as well as one-way paths. They are so versatile, especially when you consider that gasoline is approximately two times what it costs in Canada. Everybody rides bicycles - from fat businessmen to little old ladies to policemen.

A few days after I arrived in Holland, I went to Soesterberg, near Utrecht. There, I spent a week with 30 other exchange students from all over the world. Apart from a language course and tours of various places in the area, the real reward came from the new friends I've made, giving me new contacts all over Holland and the world. I roomed with a guy from Texas, whom I could hardly understand for the first few hours. We had our own round-the-table debates with small groups about apartheid and nuclear arms, but in general, it turned out to be one great week-long party. I had something like 19 hours of sleep in six days.

Since then, I have been travelling about this part of Holland with a bunch of "blokes" from Windsor, England. There are about 10-15 English guys and girls that are here in Castricum on a two week exchange through the Rotary Club. Last week, we took the train to Amsterdam. (It was not my first time there, as I had spent a whole day earlier riding my bike over all the city with a guy from Pennsylvania. We were totally lost but didn't care).

Anyway, the group took a boat tour through the canals, seeing the many old buildings (some of which are so small that you could face them and comfortably lay your hands on both the neighbour's houses).

Amsterdam is such a fast-paced city, possessing an atmosphere that cannot be found elsewhere in Holland. It is a cosmopolitan centre, with thousands of shops lining the crowded alleyways and vendors or musicians on every street corner.

All this week, we have had a full itinerary, including a bike trip to the world-famous Alkmaar cheese market (purely a tourist show, lacking the true "gezellig" atmosphere), to 10 pin bowling (they've never heard of 5 pin bowling) in Heiloo. We have also had a boat tour of the Winuizen Harbour, through which all ocean ships to Amsterdam must pass, and the huge Dutch steelworks beside the harbour. Today we had an interesting tour of the fully automated Gouda cheese factory, situated east of Alkmaar.

Everybody here has treated me so well. My family is now able to speak with me in Dutch most of the time, as I can finally begin to split up those squeaks, squawks and gurgles into individual words. I can almost hold a full conversation in Dutch after only 3 weeks here, although the language seemed so mixed up and bizarre at first. Almost everybody in Holland can speak some English, but they speak Dutch 99% of the time.

Tomorrow, I am going with my Rotary councillor to school to see what subjects I'll be taking. They have a very different school system here, consisting of a number of separate levels, but it's too complicated to explain at this moment. School begins on August 24th (but we will have a "fall break"). I am not at all worried about school because I have already met a number of students going there, and because I know that I won't be doing much work there.

Right now, I am looking forward to a weekend camping in N.E. Holland with my family and a friend from Texas.
Tot ziens.

But her trail leads only to the seedy fringes of the film world, where Anna finds that fraud, failure, and violence marked Deirdre's path to a lonely death. before long there is another death to deal with, and an attempt on her life that makes Anna wish she were back on one of the old routine cases.

Doris took us in the bus to Minden Fair, and saw a lot of lovely horses that were there. The Ladies from Highland Crest took first prize on their craft display, including Teddy Carr's home-made trains, by the way. We were real good this August 22nd by the way.

Went to hear Mr. Miller's farewell service, before he goes away. There was a real interesting service in the Chapel on Sunday night. Mrs. Thompson played the music and led the singing. Harold read the lesson, and it was so nice to have the Cooch family. Rev. Cooch led us in prayer, told us how we could test our lives to know if we belong to God.

Congratulations to Father and Mrs. Elliott on the birth of their lovely daughter.

Watched three movies Monday night. "Ksan Klondike Days" and "Ontario Surprise". Sorry they hadn't been seen by a few more eyes.

Linda is on three weeks holidays. She is surely missed when she is away.

Les McGuire had a birthday cake here, and another when their son took them out to dine. We are not sure of his age, but it's sixty-nine.

Rev. Philips came down from Haliburton this Tuesday autumn day. In the chapel at Hyland Crest, he surely did hold sway. He brought a spirited message in such a cheerful way. We really all enjoyed it more than we can say. He has such a hearty laugh, it cheered us mournful souls, we forgot for a while that we are getting old.

Wednesday night was Doris and Linda's birthdays. We thought a surprise was for them. We'd sing "Happy Birthday" when I started to play. Everyone was to sing. They just sat there like mummies and didn't do a thing. However things turned out real merry. It wasn't only the girls birthdays - it was also Mr. Earnest Berry's.

Tuesday night Fred Ballard came fine music he did play. We can always depend on Fred to come most any day.

The ladies from St. Stephen's church brought in our lunch today, also a lovely birthday cake for those who had birthdays this month, by the way.

Friday we boarded our bus, with Doris at the wheel. We went to Jimmy Cooper's lovely house, for our noon meal. Joan Kernohan also came along, not just for the ride. She said if we didn't behave ourselves she would tan our hides. It was raining when we arrived there - to the family room we retired. With a fire in the fireplace, what more could we require.

When we had eaten Jimmy told us jokes galore, then show some interesting pitchers we hadn't seen before. We really all enjoyed ourselves. They are gracious hosts, and treated us so fine. We thank them for giving us such a good time.

Last night the wind was in the East,
Tonight she's in the West.
The skipper blew, a puff from his pipe,
And split the back of his vest.

Two events mark Terry Fox day

At least two events are planned in the Haliburton Highlands this month to mark Terry Fox Day in Canada. Officials of the Canadian Cancer Society have set September 19 to honour the young Canadian who attempted to run across Canada in an effort to raise money for cancer research.

A run, to help raise money for the Cancer Society will be held in Haliburton Village Sunday afternoon. The ten kilometre circuit attracted 250 runners last year and it is expected that more will be on hand this September 19. The run starts at 1 p.m. from the town dock at Head Lake.

Last year, the first year for the run, some $5000 in pledges were received.

Organizer Blair Pierce noted that even though the event is billed as a "run", many participants last year walked the course, and helped the fund raising effort. "We're holding a run because that was Terry's sport," Pierce said, "but we will also welcome those who wish to walk."

Pledge sheets for the run are available from Becker's in Minden and Mike's Milk Stores in Haliburton and Minden.

In another tribute to Terry Fox, Highlands residents will be invited to the second annual picnic at the Minden Community Centre. Organizer Reverend George Elliott, noted last week that plans for the day are still being completed. Details should be announced soon.

MUNICIPAL ENUMERATION

Starting September 7, 1982, an enumerator, carrying a proper identification card, will call at your residence for a few minutes to check basic information required in determining:

- your eligibility to vote in the municipal and school board elections to be held on November 8 this year;
- the allocation of education property taxes between the public and separate school systems;
- the distribution of provincial grants to local governments to help reduce tax bills;

- population information needed for other municipal programs.

The enumerator must record such information as the name, age, property status (e.g. owner or tenant), school support and residency of all members of the household.

This year in certain areas the enumerator will also ask if you would like your name included on a list of electors for French-language schools.

When the enumerator visits, please check that the information on the Enumeration Notice is correct. If it is not, revise it and verify the changes.

If you are not home, a Notice will be left for you. If changes are necessary, please make them and mail the Enumeration Notice, as soon as possible, in the pre-addressed postage prepaid envelope accompanying the Notice. For any additional information, please contact the local assessment office.

Mrs. Verna Jarvis spent last week with friends in Cobourg, Powassan and South River.

Mrs. Lillian Porter had her grandson Stephen visiting for the week and returned home to Oshawa with him for a few days visit.

I am sorry to report that Mr. Emil Neimann of Haliburton, passed away last week. Our deepest sympathy to his family and friends.

The Thrift Shop at St. Paul's will be open this Friday, September 3. Come and take advantage of the great buys.

There will be free movies shown in the Common Room of the Minden Cultural Centre this Friday, starting at 7:15 p.m.

The Reverend and Mrs. George Elliott and new baby daughter Elizabeth Ann, have returned home from Toronto. Our best wishes to the proud parents and baby.

The Eskimo Art by Hungarian artist Nori Peter, owned by Dr. Harry Good of Haliburton, is currently on display at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery in the Minden Cultural Centre. The beautiful paintings and sculpture are wonderful renditions of the people of the Midnight Sun. Miss Peter is widely represented by her work, both in Canada and the United States. There is also a collection of porcelain plates done by the artist. Also on display is a lovely collection of works by the rug hookers of the Guild of Fine Arts. Much beauty and originality is shown in these pieces done so lovingly. It is a fine show and well worth seeing. Tickets are on sale at the Centre for the raffle of a beautiful blue bedspread done by the Weavers Guild, which can also be seen at the Centre. The show is open to the public weekdays from 3 to 5 and on Saturdays, from 1 to 5 p.m.

At this time I would like to thank all the people who participated in the preceding show - As It Was Then - based on the history of Minden and vicinity. It was a beautiful show and very well attended. Our deep appreciation for all the items loaned to us.

On Thursday I will be taking off for a visit with some of my family in Missouri, so until I get back, stay well and save your news items for me.

Mr. and Mrs. William Deacon of Oakville visited Mrs. Taylor Kernohan for a few days last week.

Vivian Kernohan and Maude Coulter spent a few days last week in Huntsville visiting Mr. and Mrs. Jim Graham and Mr. and Mrs. William Barkwell.

The Painting

Last night I watched from my garden gate

A scene no Delacroix could paint

The sky was like a wind-swept sea,

Cerise, and purple beckoned me.

All coral, crimson, green and gold

A prism brilliant to behold,

Then in one glorious burst of fire

Now writhed, and dimmed with spent desire

The sun sank low behind the trees,

That genuflected with the breeze,

Then one by one, the stars came out,

Now here, now there, now all about.

The moon, a milky topaz eye,

It hid as clouds meandered by,

A sly, seductive winking she That seemed to taunt, come fly with me.

Come fly, and see before your eyes

A dazzling glimpse of Paradise.

She spilled her shadow on the lawn

For elfin sprites to dance upon.

All filmy webbed, and gossamer

To cause aesthetic hearts to stir,

In sparkling beads of pearly sand

My garden was a fairyland.

Then with a final smile so proud

My temptress slipped behind a cloud.

A chilly breeze began to blow,

It chilled my loving heart, I know,

So with the vision in my head

I softly went upstairs to bed.

spot the shot contest

Each week during the summer, we'll publish a photograph, like the one below, of a familiar scene in the Haliburton Highlands. All you have to do is identify the scene and you could win

$20 gift certificate

redeemable at either the Minden or Haliburton

Foodmaster.

The winner will be chosen by lot from all the correct entries received by the closing date. Entries can be dropped off at The Times office Minden, sent to Box 97, Minden or placed in the contest boxes at the Minden or Haliburton Red and White Foodmasters.

There will be a new contest each week, so keep your eyes peeled and try to spot the shot.

Please mark contest number 10 on your entry if you think you know the name of the lake pictured above.

— WINNER —

Well.....ahem.....contest number eight certainly was a tough one.....perhaps a bit too tough. Unfortunately we did not receive one correct entry, although 15 of our 26 entrants were absolutely certain the lake in the photo was Mountain Lake. No, it wasn't that lake, nor was it Canning, Gull, Big Bob, Kushog, Redstone or Kashagawigamog, all lakes that were suggested. The lake pictured in contest number eight was Loon Lake just east of Haliburton. Since we failed to have a winner for contest number 8, we have decided to extend the contest one more week. The photo above was to be the last in this series, but watch for number 11 in next week's edition of The Times.
